

Bulletin 10 - 24 May 2019

Welcome to the tenth and final bulletin of the Monkey League 2018/19 Season.

Winners and Losers

Liverpool did win the league!! Okay, the Monkey Premier League perhaps, but still something. No prizes for guessing who are runners-up. Yes – actual Premier League winners and defending champions Manchester City. Fine seasons from Wolves and Watford cannot be overlooked also as these clubs proved to punch above their weight to finish third and fourth respectively. Huddersfield Town ended the season in bottom place, closely followed by Fulham. Manchester United's down, up and then down season meant they finished in 18th spot.

Norwich and Sheffield United are centurions in the Monkey League Championship as both clubs also achieved automatic promotion back to the Premier League. Leeds United unfortunately ran out of steam and finished in third place, and have also since been dumped out of the play-offs. Whilst not suffering back-to-back relegations, Stoke City have still endured a difficult season back in the Championship. This is reflected in their bottom place finish. Ipswich (or "Is-peech" amongst other sounds that Marcel Bielsa would say) and Millwall also ended in the bottom three.

Despite losing two of their last five games, Luton Town were comfortable winners in Monkey League One. Barnsley and Doncaster were tied on 99 points in second place but only Barnsley managed to secure automatic promotion with The Hatters. As well as being relegated to League Two, Scunthorpe United and Bradford City were the bottom clubs in the Monkey League One.

Lincoln City secured top spot in League Two but fell quite a bit short in Monkey League Two thanks to three defeats in their last four games. Instead, Forest Green Rovers take the crown ahead of Stevenage and promotion-hopefuls Newport County. The world's oldest professional league club, Notts County, will be plying their trade out of the Football League for the first time in their history, and to make matters worse, they finished bottom of Monkey League Two.

The Monkey League Results

Mark Sadler has been as relentless as Manchester City in his pursuit to top the Monkey League standings. And, much like Manchester City, he has come out on top beating and impressive 999 monkeys. Andrew Grant's fine debut season is rewarded with a second place finish, and Monkey League veteran Andrew Hall is third.

Chris Williams takes the wooden spoon for this year with Brendan O'Connor lucky enough to escape such this coveted award just above Chris.

Simon Redfern contributed as this bulletin's biggest riser by moving up 31 places up to 45th spot, while Kapil Sheth dropped 30 places to 89th place.

Quote of the Week

"We are going up" said most football fans whose teams are involved in the play-off finals this bank holiday weekend. Best of luck to all teams involved!

News in Brief

It feels like a lifetime ago already, but English clubs dominated the Champions League and Europa League semi-finals (in the end!). Tottenham will play Liverpool in Atletico Madrid's (relatively) new stadium on 1st June and Chelsea will play Arsenal on 29th May in the well-known European football hotspot of Baku, Azerbaijan.

The Nations League is not the only international football tournament involving European teams this summer as England's Lionesses will attempt to create history in France as the women's World Cup kick off on 7 June. England and Scotland are the only home nations competing and have in fact been pitted in the same group.

Question of the Week

Last time we wanted to know whose fastest goal record was broken by Shane Long and who it was against?

No-one correctly answered but it was Ledley King against Bradford back in 2000-01. Interestingly, the top 5 fastest goals are:

Shane Long 7.69 seconds
Ledley King 9.82 seconds
Alan Shearer 10.52 seconds
Christian Eriksen 10.54 seconds
Mark Viduka 11.90 seconds
